

Home food PRESERVATION

HOME CANNING is becoming more and more popular in Florida. If you want to learn how to can food and have some fun, come to our hands-on and informative food preservation classes to learn proper home canning techniques. And if you're thinking about selling homemade jams and jellies at farmers' markets and need to learn about the Florida Cottage Food Rules, University of Florida Cooperative Extension can help! In 2012, classes will be held in the Florida counties highlighted.

To learn more about safe canning at home, call your local county extension offices, or visit http://edis.ifas.ufl.edu/topic_canning_food or <http://nchfp.uga.edu/>.

