Extension Programs

Educational Programs and Activities

Relatives as Parents (RAP)

Parenting the Second Time Around (PASTA): Lead Extension trainer in Florida for an educational curriculum developed by Cornell University Cooperative Extension and adopted as statewide program for RAP.

Grandparenting Resilience and Sustainability (GRandS): With support from a NIFA Sustainable Community Project grant, I assisted in the development of GRandS, which is an intensive RAP program that works closely with community partners to provide education and skills training to grandparents who are raising their grandchildren.

Kinship Military Program: With support from a 2010-2011 UF/IFAS Extension Program Enhancement Grant, I assisted in the development of educational materials and resources for RAPs caring for children who have a military parent who is deployed.

Family Nutrition and Obesity Prevention

Food Related Intergenerational Discussion Group Experiences (FRIDGE): Lead Extension trainer in Florida for a curriculum developed by Penn State University Extension that helps families identify the risks for overweight and obesity and offers skills to assist families in working together to lessen the risks.

Get Healthy Together: Assisted in development of a lesson on family communication to accompany this 15-lesson curriculum on health and nutrition for 7-10 year olds.

Healthy Children, Healthy Families: Parents Making a Difference!: Lead parent education trainer in Florida for an eight lesson curriculum developed at Cornell University that helps parents and caregivers gain skills that promote healthy habits for themselves and their families.

Youth and Families At-Risk

Strengthening Families: Lead Extension trainer in Florida for Strengthening Families, a research-based conceptual model of healthy families developed by the Center for the Study of Social Policy. It frames strong families in the context of six protective factors which, when present, can reduce the likelihood of negative child and family outcomes among youth and families at-risk.

Intergenerational Relationships

Bridging Generations, Building Relationships: A set of educational materials I developed to increase participant's knowledge and skills in nurturing intergenerational relationships with youth ages eight to eighteen.

Intergenerational Approaches to Extension Programming: A set of educational materials I developed to increase participant knowledge of intergenerational approaches to Extension programming and how existing Extension programs can become more intergenerational.

Generations in the Workplace: A set of educational materials I developed to increase participant knowledge of the behavioral and learning styles of people from different generations and how these differences both enhance and inhibit productivity in the workplace.

Generations in Everyday Life: A set of educational materials I developed to increase participant knowledge of the behavioral and learning styles of people from different generations.

4H Intergenerational Technology: A set of educational materials I developed to increase knowledge of 4-H youth about teaching technology skills to older adults.
